

The Canadian Pilgrim

A publication of the Canadian Society of Mayflower Descendants

The CSMD is a member society of the General Society of Mayflower Descendants

Susan Roser: Guest Speaker at our October 20th AGM

We members of the CSMD owe a great deal to Susan Roser. A member since 1981, she has acted as our historian for many years, helping many of us prove our genealogy and become a part of our small group of Canadian Mayflower descendants.

At the same time, Susan was editor of this publication, The Canadian Pilgrim, and wrote numerous reference books on Mayflower genealogy. In 2004, she compiled a Mayflower research course offered by the University of Toronto's Genealogical Institute of Online Studies. Heritage Publications published her companion volume, How to Research Your Mayflower Ancestry in 2004. (See the list of her publications on page 7 – they likely contain information on your ancestors!)

By the early 2000s, Susan moved into the upper echelons of the General Society of Mayflower Descendants, headquartered in Plymouth, Massachusetts. She is currently Assistant Governor General (2017-2020), Editor of the Mayflower Quarterly Magazine and member of the Editorial committee for the Mayflower Journal.

In acknowledgement of all her hard work and impressive achievements, she received the GSMD Governor General's Distinguished Service Award – given for outstanding service to the General Society, in 2014.

Susan will be the guest speaker at this year's annual CSMD luncheon on October 20, 2018 at the Cricket Club in Toronto where she will give a presentation on the GSMD's 2017 Mayflower Tour to England and Holland. Take advantage of this opportunity to thank Susan for all her hard work on our behalf and book your tickets now!

Above: Susan Roser, from the Oakville Beaver, October 16, 1994. Susan is a 12th generation Mayflower descendant of Isaac and Mary Allerton. She was described in the article in The Beaver as a member of a "fairly exclusive club" with just 150 members in 1994.

Annual General Meeting and Fall Compact Luncheon of the Canadian Society of Mayflower Descendants!

Governor's Message

It has been a busy time for the Canadian Society of Mayflower Descendants! The small company that had hosted our website and database for the past number of years was acquired by a larger organization. The new owners informed us that they were no longer able to support the platforms on which our database and website operated and that they were going to shut them down.

Knowing the importance of a database to a lineage society, our Historian Donna Denison took it upon herself to research options while the deadline loomed. She was aided in this important work by our website committee consisting of Ian Cook, Susan Roser, Maureen McGee, and me – with tremendous help and input on the technology side from Paul Roney. I am pleased to report that we have engaged a new supplier, Evolution in Designz, which is working on migrating our database and website as well as updating the design for the latter. We hope to launch the new website and database in September.

I am saddened to report that our Historian, Donna Denison, is retiring for personal reasons, effective immediately. Donna served as Co-Historian for a number of years under former Historians Nathan Mean and Susan Roser. Donna was the first point of contact for many applicants and she always treated them respectfully and offered helpful advice. She stepped into the role of Historian on an acting basis and has done a superb job. Many thanks to Susan Roser for stepping in on a temporary basis to help new applicants with their worksheets, and to our Co-Historian Judi Archibald for her ongoing services. We are also indebted to Donna, as mentioned above, for the substantial amount of work she has done in ensuring that we preserved our database.

Darrel Kennedy, the Assiniboine Herald of the Canadian Heraldic Authority, has provided suggestions for a preliminary design for the arms for the Canadian Society of Mayflower Descendants, and I will be sharing this with the Board of Assistants as we work towards finalizing a design and motto. Thanks to Dr. George Nye for suggesting mottoes and for sending images of the Mayflower to guide the Heralds in their design. Thanks also to Fr. Guy Selvester, a noted authority on heraldry who provided invaluable insights and suggestions.

I have spent the past few months working on a family history book for a friend and will detail my odyssey elsewhere in this issue of Canadian Pilgrim. Although he is not a Mayflower descendant, his Huguenot immigrant ancestor landed in New Amsterdam in 1657 on a ship called De Bontekoe (roughly translated 'the spotted cow') – not very long after our own ancestors arrived. In many respects, the challenges and privations he suffered were similar to those endured in Plymouth colony.

I hope you have all had a good summer! I look forward to seeing many of you at our Annual General Meeting and Fall Compact Luncheon on Saturday, October 20, 2018 (details on page one of this newsletter).

Respectfully submitted,

George G. McNeillie III,
UE Governor

I am Nova Scotia born and bred on the South Shore from sea faring ancestors on both sides of the house! My Cooke lineage is a solid male line from Francis Cooke to my father Cecil, a twelfth generation male. I have DNA proof, but am still searching for the paper needed to prove one missing generation. I have a proven line to Stephen Hopkins.

With 51 years of research behind me, I've been my family's historian since 1967. That year was Canada's hundredth birthday, and Chatelaine magazine gave ideas for readers to celebrate the occasion. One of those ideas was to begin your family history. And so it began!

Back in 1967, the first genealogical search I made was to Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, where I succeeded in finding the Cooke family. I visited the home of the eldest Cooke family member, who welcomed me and shared wonderful stories of my Mayflower ancestor, Ephraim Cooke. Ephraim arrived in Yarmouth, NS, initially for the great fishing grounds, and eventually moved there in 1762. He is mentioned in reports by Chub during the Indian Wars, and he was seconded to a fort where he lost his leg. Nova Scotia must have seemed pretty peaceful after that! History of the County of Yarmouth shows his aptitude for local affairs and one of his offices was as Justice of the Peace.

Also completed is my Foreign Protestant family tree from eight original ancestors, which is my maternal line. I have written and published a book, Forgotten Settlers for my grandchildren at a level they could read to understand their genealogical lineage.

I have other hobbies, which include fibre art/rug hooking, playing piano and the ukulele, travel and fitness. I live now in Claresholm, Alberta to be near my family.

And also to celebrate birthdays!!

Barbara Meredith

Forgotten Settlers: Nova Scotia's Foreign Protestants by Barbara Meredith

It's an historical novel using fiction to amplify the actual historic data to make it interesting to a young audience. Written about a grade five level. It tells the story of a group of French, German and Swiss settlers leaving Rotterdam on "The Gale" in 1751. It follows their voyage to Halifax, their years there prior to the ships leaving for Lunenburg in 1753 under the command of Colonel Cornwallis. It continues to tell of their struggles as they tried to settle in without tools or farm animals. I've been asked to do a sequel; but I believe I've covered the historical events in this book.

Between us, I wrote it because no one has, to my knowledge, given the true story of the hardships of these 2,000 plus settlers. The British government let them down, and what they had offered them was just not there when they arrived. I descend maternally from the German, French and Swiss settlers, so it made me feel good to write it. :-)) It was purchased mostly by adults in Lunenburg and at the Bluenose Shop. The SSGS said they thought it was the best description of the landing of the settlers at Lunenburg. That's high praise in my books! Ha.

The book was published in 2008 and 2009. Last month I asked my son to take down my Shortrock.com website as I have very few copies left and most are earmarked for great grands now!

Writing a family history

By George McNeillie

We have all spent countless hours researching our applications to the Mayflower Society, painstakingly documenting each generation, and have viewed the fruits of our successful labours with justifiable pride. After all, how many people can trace their family tree back much further than their grandparents? I used to joke that I had waited until all the people who could answer my questions were already dead before I began to pursue my interest in genealogy seriously.

I was always happy to discuss my genealogical peregrinations with family and friends – patient but not always enthusiastic audiences! And while in engaged in one of these conversations – initiated by my wife and chief cheerleader Joan Peters) that two of my oldest friends asked me if I would research and write a family history that they could leave to their children and grandchildren.

I was inspired to do this project by our own Anne Doty Wright, editor of Canadian Pilgrim, who had published an elegant family history The Dotys Came Over on the Mayflower, cataloguing her descent from Edward Doty. Anne was very helpful and encouraging and I obtained a copy of her book. She had it self-published on the platform Blurb.com, and had used a professional graphic artist to assist with the layout and design. The result was a handsome and very readable book, which Anne wrote about in the spring 2018 issue of Canadian Pilgrim.

My friend's family were descended from a French Huguenot who came to New Amsterdam in 1657. The surname was spelled variously over the generations (I counted over 30 variations – due to the creative phonetic spellings by Dutch ministers in the Reformed Church!).

A cousin of my friend's had painstakingly researched and written an impressive family history in the pre-Internet 1990s. While some of the information was outdated, it provided a marvellous compendium of sources against which I could check more recent scholarship on online resources provided by the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society (NYG&B) and AmericanAncestors.org, the website of the New England Historic Genealogical Society (NEHGS). In addition, my friend and I spent a delightful day with his sister, the family's current and extremely capable historian, who had a treasure trove of family memorabilia, including photos, newspaper accounts, and books.

The question then became what should the scope of the project be: and should it be written in formal genealogical style (NEHGS Register-style or as an ahnentafel – German for ancestor table) or as a narrative? My friend and his wife and I agreed that it needed to be written as an engaging narrative that would encourage family members to pick it up and read it – not leave it lying on the coffee table or on a bookshelf! We also agreed that there also needed to be a chapter or two on his wife's very interesting and accomplished family.

I developed a detailed proposal, book outline, and budget. The first step was to establish a family tree on Ancestry.ca. It took me about six weeks to create and populate a family tree. Ancestry is a wonderful resource – as long as one is mindful of the fact that there is a lot of false and misleading information posted by well-intentioned amateur family historians. Each generation had to be verified with sources cited and this was slow and painstaking work.

To get a better idea of how to go about the best way of publishing a book, I turned to the New England Historic Genealogical Society in Boston. Their excellent online seminar "Writing & Publishing Your Family History" was a five-hour marathon that covered every aspect of writing and publishing a family history, and included detailed recommendations on planning; researching; writing (including various styles); documenting sources; the importance of an index; illustrations; copyright issues; and selecting the best way to publish (e-book or hard copy; self-publish or choose an established publisher). I highly recommend that would-be authors invest the modest amount of time and money to explore the best way to approach a family history book project – it will pay huge dividends in the end.

As you read this, I am busily engaged in writing to a deadline that aims to provide a finished book in time for my friend to give to his family for Christmas!

Designing our new CSMD Coat of Arms

Part II: Work on this project continues following last spring's approval of our request for a CSMD coat of arms to the to the Canadian Heraldic Authority of Canada for a Canadian Grant of Arms.

Darrel Kennedy, the Assiniboine Herald of the Canadian Heraldic Authority, has provided suggestions for a preliminary design, and Governor George McNeillie and the Board of Assistants are working towards a final design and motto.

CSMD Surgeon, Dr. George Nye, of Calgary, Alberta, has suggested mottoes and provided images of the Mayflower to guide the Heralds in their design. Both Dr. Nye and George McNeillie are members of the Royal Heraldry Society of Canada.

Dr. Nye, alumnus (1960) of Acadia University in Wolfville, Nova Scotia, recently requested that the Board of Governors of his alma mater submit an application for a new Coat of Arms (or heraldic shield) for his alma mater displaying the university colours of garnet and blue.

See "The story of a Coat of Arms" about the Acadia University redesign, published in the Fall 2017 edition of the Acadia Bulletin, page 30. Available online at: https://issuu.com/acadiacommunications/docs/acadia_bulletin_f2017

Susan Roser honoured

GSMD Governor General George Garmany recently announced that the recipient of the 2018 Pilgrim Academic Research Award is Susan Roser. Susan was honoured at the GSMD General Board of Assistants (GBOA) 1620 Club dinner for her contributions to Pilgrim and Mayflower genealogy. Previous recipients were Jeremy Bangs, Jim Baker and a University of Boston archeological team.

This year, the GBOA meeting was held September 8, 2018 in St. Charles, IL. Two General Society officers representatives nominated by their member society attend. Our representatives were Treasurer Maureen McGee, who was elected Assistant General at this meeting, and Deputy Governor General and Assistant Governor General Susan Roser.

The event took place over four days, with tours, meetings and seminars. Information day was held September 7, with historian meetings, committee meetings, treasurer meetings, and the Governor General's Forum, which discussed membership growth initiatives and suggestions, our membership management database IMIS and fundraising for the Meetinghouse.

Next year's GBOA meeting will be held in Denver, Colorado. Only the DGG and AG may participate in the one-day meeting itself, however any member may join in on the tours and committee meetings.

New England Historic Genealogical Society releases new database

In partnership with the General Society of Mayflower Descendants (GSMD), the database offers meticulous documentation of the Mayflower passengers who arrived in 1620 and left descendants.

The NEHGS scanned and indexed print volumes of genealogical data researched and published by the General Society of Mayflower Descendants (GSMD). The database contains authenticated information on more than 7,300 families—more than 59,450 people—in the fifth generation of 50 of the 51 Mayflower passengers known to have descendants.

More than 193,000 records—birth, baptism, marriage, deeds, death, and burial—cover all the Pilgrims, with the exception of one: the family of Moses Fletcher. Fletcher died during the first winter at Plymouth, while his family remained in Leiden, the Netherlands. The database contains information for the descendants of John Alden, Isaac Allerton, John Billington, William Bradford, William Brewster, Peter Brown, James Chilton, Francis Cooke, Edward Doty, Francis Eaton, Edward Fuller, Samuel Fuller, Stephen Hopkins, John Howland, Richard More, William Mullins, Degory Priest, Thomas Rogers, Henry Samson, Myles Standish, John Tilley, Richard Warren, William White, and Edward Winslow.

The “Mayflower Families Fifth Generation Descendants, 1700-1880” database is a result of a collaboration between NEHGS and GSMD announced in July of 2017. Through that agreement, GSMD made its “Silver Books” resource available to NEHGS for the purpose of digitization and indexing. Known by that name because of their distinctive silver covers, the Mayflower Families Through Five Generations series meticulously documents the first five generations of Pilgrim descendants. This new online database encompasses the fifth generation portion of these. It is available for use in family history research by anyone who is a paying member of NEHGS.

The organization has announced a three-month new membership program for those interested in researching this and 450 other unique online database resources on AmericanAncestors.org; GSMD members have the benefit of discounted annual membership fees at NEHGS.

With a growing collection of more than 1.4 billion online records on its website AmericanAncestors.org, original published scholarship – including the journal Mayflower Descendant – and unique educational resources, NEHGS is America’s founding genealogical organization and has more than 250,000 constituents worldwide. It offers tools and expertise to help family historians of all levels explore their past and understand their families’ unique place in history.

American Ancestors has just completed digitizing all the Silver Books. Unfortunately, the agreement they have with Plymouth only allows them to show generation 1 and then skip to generation 5 and beyond. American Ancestors requires a paid membership. Very reasonably priced, less than $100.00 USD for a single year.

The Colony of Mayflower Descendants in Nova Scotia

The Nova Scotia Colony of Mayflower Descendants is a group of people who celebrate their descent from one of the 26 families who left progeny after arriving in Plymouth, Massachusetts in the fall of 1620. Many of the people who landed in those first years established families naturally enough in the area surrounding Plymouth and what is now Cape Cod.

In 1761, almost 150 years later, a group of people from Sandwich, Massachusetts and surrounding areas answered the call of the Nova Scotia Government and took up the land formerly held by the Acadians in our Province, but which at the time lay vacant after the expulsion of 1755.

The founding five families of Yarmouth, Nova Scotia and most of the founding families of Barrington, Nova Scotia (also founded in 1761) were Mayflower descendants from the Cape Cod area. For this reason, many people who can trace their ancestry in southwest Nova Scotia to its founders or early settlement are also Mayflower descendants – in fact, the Yarmouth and Shelburne County areas of Nova Scotia probably have more Mayflower descendants per capita than any other place on earth – with almost as many as in New England! Just as an example, the three oldest cemeteries in Port Maitland and Beaver River, NS have over 70 percent of the people buried in them identified as possible Mayflower descendants.
